

JASON ZEEMAN

Jason is a SAMA award winning musician and singer-songwriter from Johannesburg, South Africa.

Jason once fronted the South African rock band, Reason, whose debut self titled album was nominated, and won at the 17th Annual SAMA Awards.

Following some success with Reason, Jason spent time honing his craft and music experiences on different platforms around South Africa. These included sessioning as a guitarist for international artists, writing and producing, as well as working on various live shows for International tours and organisations.

In 2018, Jason reconnected with Josh Klynsmith from Gangs of Ballet, who Jason originally met back in 2011 while they were both part of the John Ellis (Tree63) band.

After some planning and discussions, the long journey of writing and creating "Sweet Escape" started. The project was recorded in Johannesburg, Durban, and Sri Lanka where Josh now resides. The final mix took place over a year later at Maven Studios in Pretoria with Jake Odendaal and is now available on all online digital stores.
